Let me tell you something: when I first heard Grace Story by Paul Tomisin featuring Ellie Scotte, I almost cried out, “Ah! This one touched my soul!” You know, those times when you’ve been walking your own journey, dealing with wahala left, right, and center, and suddenly you hear a song that just carries you straight to heaven? That’s exactly what happened when I listened to Grace Story. The lyrics hit so close to home, and the emotion in Paul Tomisin’s voice—chai, if grace had a voice, this is it!

Now, let me gist you about this beautiful masterpiece before I get carried away. Grace Story (feat. Ellie Scotte) is not just another gospel song; it’s an anthem of hope and a reminder that even when you’re flat on your back, feeling defeated, God’s grace will come running. The song dropped in 2024, with a powerful duration of 7 minutes and 3 seconds. Paul Tomisin poured his heart out in those seven minutes, no jokes.

The Lyrics That Break Chains

You see, the lyrics alone are a full-blown sermon. Here's a snippet that struck me hard:

- > “Cried my eyes out 'cause I felt too short,
- > Just couldn't pray, couldn't say a word,
- > Tried my own ways, thought You weren't involved,
- > But Your grace came, Lord.”

Ah, who hasn't been there? You feel like you're doing everything by yourself. You've tried all your "connections", all your strategies, but it's like God went on vacation. But then, His grace comes—just when you're about to give up. That's the beauty of it.

And the chorus:

- > “It comes running, running, running,
- > It goes knocking, knocking, knocking,
- > He then saves me, saves me, saves me, Lord.
- > It's Your grace, my Lord.”

Now tell me, how can you not feel this in your bones? This song doesn't just talk about grace as a concept; it brings it home, lets you feel that grace is chasing you, not just walking lazily. Even when you think you're lost, that grace is banging on your door, asking to save you. No pretense. Just pure, raw grace.

Why You Should Listen to Grace Story Right Now

If you haven't listened to this song yet, my brother, my sister, what are you waiting for? It's not just about the sweet melody, oh. The song is like a warm blanket on a cold night. You know, those moments when you feel like you've messed up one too many times, and you think God don't tire for you? Then you hear this song, and it's like, "Ah, so na lie I dey believe all this while. God still dey my corner!"

Imagine, I had a moment like that just the other day. I was going through a really tough season—business wasn't booming, relationships were stressful, everything just seemed to be falling apart. I felt like, "Ah God, is it that you've forgotten me?" Then, in one of those WhatsApp groups where I usually get motivational content, someone shared the Grace Story video link. As I listened to the song, e be like something lift off my chest. Suddenly, I could breathe again. I cried like Paul Tomisin said in the song, but this time it was tears of joy. The grace came running to me, even when I thought it was far away.

Paul Tomisin & Ellie Scotte – The Dynamic Duo

Now, let's not forget Ellie Scotte, who added her angelic touch to the song. Her voice on the track is like butter on warm bread—just smooth and divine! She complements Paul Tomisin's soulful lyrics so well, and the way their voices blend together will make you believe they were handpicked by heaven itself for this song.

Music Video? Don't Miss It!

The music video for Grace Story is also something else. The visuals just amplify the song's message. Paul Tomisin didn't just put words to music; he created an experience that brings you closer to God's grace. Watching the video, you feel like you're part of the story—a reminder that His grace is available no matter where you are.

Paul Tomisin's Upcoming Tour and How You Can Be a Part of It

Now, if you're looking to experience this song live—because trust me, watching it on YouTube is one thing, but live? That's a whole other level—Paul Tomisin has some tour dates coming up. If you want to be front and center for that heavenly experience, be sure to grab your tickets early. Who knows, maybe 7hubent Tech might even have a giveaway for a few free tickets—stay tuned!
