Omo! Have you ever sat down, scrolling through Instagram, WhatsApp, or Facebook, and wondered, “How are people making all this money without leaving their house?” Some people will be lounging on their beds, slippers off, and yet their bank account dey boom! I used to think it was jazz o! Until I discovered some sneaky, lazy ways to make money online right here in Ibadan. Don’t worry, I’m not talking about all those get-rich-quick schemes that will send you back to your village broke. This one na legit!

But let me tell you a small secret: 7hubent Tech, that WhatsApp TV platform that everybody keeps whispering about, is one of the hidden gems in this game. Na them go help you advertise your small business for free, and before you know it, your hustle go blow!

So, grab your cup of garri, put your feet up, and let me show you 7 lazy hidden ways to make money online in Ibadan. Even if you’re as laid-back as one of those unbothered Ibadan cats, these tips fit work for you.

1. WhatsApp TV Advertising with 7hubent Tech

Let me just carry this one to the front because e no get rival! So, WhatsApp TV is basically a way to share adverts to a large audience through your WhatsApp status. You can start your own or, better yet, partner with 7hubent Tech, a well-known platform where people dey advertise for free. Trust me, na the new way to push your small business or sell other people's products.

You no need to hustle too much o. Just get involved, either by placing adverts for free on their WhatsApp TV or by starting your own small WhatsApp group. In Ibadan, we know that word of mouth na the king, and WhatsApp TV be like the 21st-century word of mouth!

I know one guy, Adewale, that started this thing part-time. Omo, before we knew it, the guy dey cash out steady just from people paying him to place ads. All Adewale does is sleep, wake up, and post status updates. That's all o! Now he has more customers than Agodi Market!

2. Affiliate Marketing: The Lazy Man's Goldmine

Affiliate marketing sounds like big grammar, but it's just a fancy way of saying, "Help someone sell their product, and collect your commission." But here's the twist—you don't even need a website to start! With WhatsApp, Instagram, or Twitter, you can share affiliate links.

Just find products that people are already looking for (don't go and start promoting winter coats in Nigeria o!), then sign up for their affiliate program. Share the links, sit back, and collect your money once people buy through your link.

If you don't know where to start, go to 7hubent Tech WhatsApp TV. You'll see business owners dying for affiliate marketers to help them push their products. Plus, you'll be making passive income while sipping on cold zobo in your living room.

3. Dropshipping Without Moving a Finger

Some people hear "dropshipping" and immediately think it's a lot of work. Well, that's because they haven't discovered the lazy way. Dropshipping is when you sell items without having to physically stock them. You no need to even leave your house to make money. Just set up your online store (no shop needed o), connect with suppliers, and once someone places an order, the supplier will ship it directly to your customer.

Now, the real hack here is to combine dropshipping with 7hubent Tech's WhatsApp TV. Post the products for free on their platform, and you don't even need to build your own customer base from scratch. It's a soft life, my people.

4. YouTube for the Talkative

I know we all have that one friend who can gist from morning till night without taking a break. If that's you, why not turn it into cash? YouTube dey pay o! And no, you don't need high-quality camera or lighting—your phone camera is just fine.

Start a YouTube channel around something you love or something you know people in Ibadan can relate to. You can start small and simple. Talk about the best amala joints in Ibadan or give relationship advice (those ones dey blow). As you post more content, YouTube will start paying you for views. Imagine getting paid for just talking!

But don't forget o, use 7hubent Tech's WhatsApp groups to share your videos and grow your views quickly. That's a smart way to get subscribers fast without spending a dime.

5. Freelancing for Lazy Geniuses

Freelancing na another easy way to make cool money. If you sabi write, design graphics, or even manage social media, you fit dey collect clients online and work from your room. But here's the catch: getting clients can be tough unless you know where to look.

Lucky for you, 7hubent Tech's WhatsApp groups allow freelancers to advertise their skills for free. And trust me, Ibadan is full of people looking for someone to help with social media, website design, and all that good stuff. Before you know it, your phone will be buzzing with job offers.

6. Sell Digital Products Without Lifting a Finger

Imagine getting paid for something you only create once. That's the beauty of digital products—e-books, courses, stock photos, even beats for musicians. Once you create them, you can sell them online again and again, with no extra work on your part.

Platforms like 7hubent Tech can help you push your digital products to a massive audience for free. You don't even need to have a big name o, just the right WhatsApp groups and a creative product, and the money will start rolling in.

7. Survey Websites: The Real Lazy Hustle

If all else fails, and you just want to make a few extra bucks without even moving from your bed, online surveys na your best bet. Websites will pay you to give your opinion on different topics. I know, it sounds too easy to be true, but it's real.

Sites like Swagbucks, Toluna, and PrizeRebel will reward you with cash or gift cards just for answering questions. This one no fit make you billionaire o, but it's a nice way to earn some quick cash while lounging in your pajamas.
